INTRODUCTION

This directory lists the companies (other than oil and gas producers) involved in mining, processing, and manufacturing mineral products in Illinois. The fold-out maps at the end show the locations of nonfuel mineral resource extraction sites (Figures 1–3) and coal mines (Figure 4).

Since the last mineral producer directory was published in 1999, company information has been updated, new locations have been added, and many closed locations have been eliminated. The extent of location maps has been expanded to show complete coverage of extraction sites.

Information about the listed operations was gathered from the U.S. Geological Survey, Illinois Manufacturers Directory, Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT), Illinois Office of Mines and Minerals, Keystone Coal Industry Manual, Illinois Association of Aggregate Producers, and staff of the Illinois State Geological Survey (ISGS). We were unable to obtain the same level of information for all operations.

Contact and other information on crude oil and natural gas producers in Illinois can be found in the Tri-state Oil Men's Directory (Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky), published by the Illinois Oil and Gas Association (P.O. Box 788, Mount Vernon, IL 62864).

To facilitate locating Illinois mineral producers, the directory lists them alphabetically by county, company, and commodity. The commodity list is organized first by commodity, then by county, and then by producers within each county. Throughout the commodity list, the three-digit number following the county name is the county number. Within the commodity list, the nonfuel extraction sites have three additional numbers that follow the county numbers and serve as statewide unique identification numbers. These numbers are used in the listings for clay pits, construction sand and gravel pits, industrial sand quarries and pits, peat pits, limestone and dolomite stone quarries, underground mines (and one sandstone quarry), and tripoli quarries.

The numbering system above was established and is maintained by IDOT (Division of Highways, Bulletin 23, Sources & Producers of Aggregate for Highway Construction in Illinois, revised November 1, 1997), the Illinois Office of Mines and Minerals, and the ISGS.

The last three or four numbers for coal mines (e.g., 886 or 1050) indicate the ISGS mining index, which was established and is maintained by the Coal, Bedrock Geology, and Industrial Minerals Section of the ISGS.

Because of the large number of relatively small extraction sites in Illinois, information in this report must be considered subject to change and frequent revision. Some sites are active only sporadically and are operated with portable equipment.

The “rock units” line identifies geologic rock units mined in Illinois (as listed in Table 1). It does not apply to mineral processing or manufacturing plants. Knowledge of which rock units are being extracted provides an indication of the variability of the material in the ground and the range of products that may be produced.

The terms “gravel” and “coarse aggregate” refer to materials that are too large to pass through a no. 4 mesh sieve (4.75-mm or 0.187-in. square openings). The terms “sand” and “fine aggregate” refer to materials that are small enough to pass through a no. 4 mesh sieve but are too large to pass through a no. 200 mesh sieve (0.075-mm or 0.0029-in. square openings). Various coarse (CA) and fine (FA) construction aggregate products are defined according to their size in Standard Specifications for Road and Bridge Construction (IDOT, Springfield, Illinois), adopted January 1, 2012 (<http://www.idot.illinois.gov/assets/uploads/files/doing-business/manuals-guides-&handbooks/highways/construction/standard-specifications/12specbook.pdf>). This book defines four coarse and fine aggregate product groups according to their physical properties:

- Class A aggregate products are suitable for use in portland cement concrete (not all applications).
- Class B aggregate products are suitable for use in Class I interstate highway-quality bituminous concrete paving and base courses.

As stated above, the first three numbers are the county numbers and the fourth number identifies the type of extraction site (except coal).

0 = sand and gravel pits
1 = industrial sand quarries or pits
2 = limestone and dolomite stone quarries and underground mines (and one sandstone quarry)
6 = clay pits
8 = peat pits
9 = tripoli quarries

The last two numbers identify the location of the pit or quarry within each county. For example,

201 - 0 30
 | 30
 0
 201 identifies the specific pit within the county identifies the extracted material as sand and gravel is the county number for Winnebago County

- Class C aggregate products are suitable for use in lower quality bituminous concrete paving and base courses and in seal and cover.
 - Class D aggregate products are suitable for use in water-bound macadam surface materials, base courses, shoulder fill, and other low-grade uses.
- Four maps on pages 45 to 51 show the locations of stone quarries and mines; sand and gravel pits; clay, peat, tripoli, and industrial sand operations; and coal mines in Illinois. The map of coal mines includes locations of coal-fueled electric power and industrial plants.
- Information on product availability at each site is intended to be representative of what may be available and does not guarantee what products are actually available or their quality. Users are urged to notify the ISGS of additions, deletions, or other changes to this directory.

Table 1 Stratigraphic units mined

Stratigraphic units are listed in order of increasing age. For more information on the Quaternary System, refer to Wedron and Mason Groups: Lithostratigraphic Reclassification of Deposits of the Wisconsin Episode, Lake Michigan Lobe Area, Bulletin 104 (Hansel and Johnson 1996). For the Tertiary System and older systems, see the Handbook of Illinois Stratigraphy, Bulletin 95 (Willman et al. 1975). Both are published by the Illinois State Geological Survey.

Clay, Peat, Tripoli, and Industrial Sand Operations in Illinois 2015

Figure 3 The site of each clay, peat, tripoli, and industrial sand operation on the map has a site number. These numbers are unique to that county and refer to the last one or two digits of the six-digit number given for that site in the Commodity list (for an explanation, see text and figure on p. 1). Closely spaced operations may be represented by one site symbol, but all site numbers are given.
